Sunfest has been bringing world culture to London for 18 years and this weekend will be no exception.

"This is the weekend that people can get a taste of the whole world," artistic director Alfredo Caxaj said. "We have more and more people from other cultures coming to London, making London their home. This festival reflects that."

Activities kicked off on Thursday and continue through Sunday in Victoria Park, with more than 275 vendors and 30 musical acts spread across five stages. Sunfest is expected to draw more than 225,000 people.

"It's 500 per cent larger than it was the first summer," Caxaj said. "We wanted to do something culturally diverse, something different. Now, Sunfest is recognized internationally."

Cool off

- Worried about the heat? Sunfest has cooling stations equipped with seating, shade and water taps for refilling bottles.

This year's highlights include the upbeat electronics of Celtic Bhangra and fusion group Delhi 2 Dublin. Calypso Rose, also known as Trinidad's darling, has chosen Sunfest for her Canadian premiere.

"She's an iconic person in Trinidad," Caxaj said. "At 72 years old, she's called the queen of calypso, and this is her first time in Canada."

Festival vendors are offering up specialties. Florence Kayites, originally from Rwanda and now living in Hamilton, sells baskets and jewelry made by survivors of the Rwandan genocide. This is her second year at Sunfest.

"I like London. Everyone is so friendly," she said. "I always try to enjoy the music while I work. The Caribbean bands are my favourite."

It's a dream gig for most students in search of a summer job.

Forget working weekend ends and slogging it in retail for an overbearing boss

— the guys behind OSMAP's Grilled Cheeserie are calling their own shots.

"It beats working in an office," said Nico Moretti, 22, of London. "I spend the day sitting outside and grilling with my buddy."

Moretti and Johnny Bryson, 22, also from London, opened their pop-up grilled cheese stand at Dundas and Talbot streets in June.

With Moretti's background in business and Bryson's in hospitality, the business team is a match made in heaven. One cooks while the other keeps customers busy, doing magic tricks and telling jokes while they wait.

Lincoln McCardle of London has become a regular at the Grilled Cheeserie. He led an effort to drum up some businesses for the stand Thursday — declaring a "grilled cheese day" on social media outlets.

"We really need to encourage this kind of business," he said. "(It's) young entrepreneurs doing something unique."

My Sister's Place is expanding.

The agency is taking on a $240,000 project that will turn a former Victorian coach house on its Dundas Street property into a studio and retail space.

The renovation — expected to start Sept. 1 — will allow for an expansion of the micro-enterprise program, which teaches women to create jewelry, which they sell.

Money will also be used for making washrooms wheelchair-accessible.

Loubani, who arrived in Canada from Palestine 10 years ago as a refugee, refused to stop talking and police were called. He was escorted out of the building when officers arrived.

City councillors are on a meeting hiatus until the week of July 16.

When they get back to business, one of the first things they'll tackle is another round of suggestions for how to make London prosperous.

The warnings about the Internet problem have been splashed across Facebook and Google.

Internet service providers have sent notices, and the FBI set up a special website. But hundreds of thousands of people around the world may still lose their Internet service Monday unless they do a quick check of their computers for malware that could have taken over their machines more than a year ago.

Syrian emails will embarrass

The first batch of 2.4 million emails from Syria being released by the whistle-blowing WikiLeaks reveals alleged high-level deals by an international arms and telecom supplier to equip the regime.

Air France. Pilot error and faulty equipment cause deadly 2009 crash

A combination of faulty sensors and mistakes by inadequately trained pilots caused an Air France jet to plunge into the Atlantic Ocean in 2009, killing all 228 people aboard in the airline's deadliest ever crash, French investigators said Thursday.

Investigators are urging better instruction for pilots on flying manually at high altitudes and stricter plane certification rules as a result of a three-year investigation into what happened to Flight 447.

Airbus, manufacturer of the A330 plane, said in a statement that it is working to improve speed sensors known as pitot tubes and making other efforts.

Air France stressed the equipment troubles and insisted the pilots "acted in line with the information provided by the cockpit instruments and systems.... The reading of the various data did not enable them to apply the appropriate action."

Flying from Rio to Paris the jet slammed into the sea during a nighttime thunderstorm.

Pecking order

Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs (1937): You really can't get more romantic than the spell-breaking power of love's first kiss. Throw in Doc, Grumpy, Happy, Sleepy, Bashful, Sneezy, and Dopey, plus a Noah's Ark worth of cuddly woodland creatures looking all weepy eyed before the prince's peck, and the anticipation is bases-loaded heart-thumping. Then Snow White awakens from her poisoned-apple coma and the crowd goes crazy as the heroine and her hero ride off into the sunset.

Lady and the Tramp (1955): After they each slurp down a strand from a shared plate of spaghetti, the restaurateur enhances the mood by serenading the star-crossed pooches with Bella Notte on his accordion. While lost in the melody, they find themselves munching on opposite ends of a long noodle. The brief snout-on-snout action is cut short by Lady's shyness, but then Tramp nuzzles a meatball toward her and puppy love twinkles in both their eyes.

Planet of the Apes (1968): "Doctor, I'd like to kiss you goodbye," Taylor says. "All right ... but you're so damned ugly!" replies Zira before allowing Charlton Heston to peck her on the lips. It's the last sweet interspecies moment in the sci-fi classic before the famous "damn you all to hell" denouement, when the astronaut sees the remnants of the Statue of Liberty while riding along the shoreline and comes to the stunning realization that he's not on an alien planet after all, but on a post-apocalyptic Earth.

Ghost (1990): The steamy potter's wheel scene with Patrick Swayze placing his hands over Demi Moore's clay-covered fingers and nibbling on her neck, while the Righteous Brothers' saccharine Unchained Melody played in the background, jump-started a glaze craze that is still with us over 20 years later. The scene has been paid homage to and parodied ad nauseum, most recently in an episode of NBC's Community, where a pottery teacher adopts a zero-Ghost-tolerance policy of both "ironic" and "sincere" re-enactments.

Spider-Man (2002): "You have a knack for saving my life. I think I have a superhero stalker," a rain-soaked Mary-Jane (Kirsten Dunst) teases before pulling away half of Spider-Man's (Tobey Maguire) mask to access his lips. The ensuing dangling, upside-down smooch inspired thousands of couples to try the move out on jungle gyms and other inversion apparatuses. Home-gamers recreating the tender Spidey moment, here's a tip: The horizontal version is a lot safer.

Twilight (2008): "Just stay very still ... don't move," Edward warns while leaning in. A breathy make-out session is always more exciting when there's a chance a vampire's hormones will go out of control and the affair will turn into a bloodletting. The chaste passion between Bella and her sensitive bloodsucker boyfriend (they wait four movies and until marriage before going all the way) stirred up an uproar in some circles with debates raging about whether they should condone or condemn the fictional relationship.

Nothing wrong with a little affection

Survey. Most Canadians say they're unfazed by a little PDA

LIA GRAINGER
london@metronews.ca

Are you a fan of the PDA? Friday is International Kissing Day, and a new survey from the matchmaking website Zoosk.com has found the vast majority of Canadians have no problems puckering up in public.

The history of the kiss

- Prehistoric times. Couples kiss to taste saliva and find a suitable mate.
- 1500 BC. Vedic Sanskrit texts from India reference "drinking moisture of the lips."
- 300 AD. The Kama Sutra contains an entire chapter on kissing.

whopping 93 per cent confessed they were fine with public displays of affection. Women are ever-so-slightly more modest than their male counterparts: 51 per cent of the ladies who responded said that public kissing in moderation is fine, while 61 per cent of the fellas said anything goes.

"The high numbers of people that are OK with PDA is indicative of our easy-going tolerance and acceptance — qualities that are consummately Canadian," says Toronto etiquette expert Karen Cleveland. She says that attitudes towards kissing in public have softened over the years, but is quick to warn there is still such a thing as going too far.

"A good rule of thumb is to avoid doing anything you'd be embarrassed to do in front of your grandparents," says Cleveland. "That means no groping and no tongue."

Dating consultant Shannon Tebb says location matters. "If you're on a subway car or in a doctor's office — anywhere confined with other people — it's probably best to avoid big displays," says Tebb. "If you're on the street, it's more acceptable."

If you've decided to go for the public smooch, why not make your partner happy? According to Zoosk.com, most Canadian men prefer sensual kisses on the lips, while the majority of women like the so-called French kiss.

Those with female partners should be extra observant, as most women said being with a good kisser is important. But men were less concerned because their partners "may be better at other things." We'll let you ponder that one for yourselves.

Boy who grew hair for good cause endured months of bullying

Snip, snip and it's gone.

"Now that I got rid of my hair, there's no way they can make fun of me," said 10-year-old William Panter while getting about eight inches of hair cut off on Thursday.

He grew his hair for about 18 months, putting up with teasing and name-calling, until it was long enough to make a wig for someone with cancer.

His grandmother died from the disease in March 2011. Her death was very hard on him, but he realized what he could do to help someone.

The hair, cut at Diann's Hair Salon in Orleans, Ont., which often does Cuts For Cancer fundraisers, will go to the Ottawa Regional Cancer Foundation.

His dad, Nik Panter, said the past year-and-a-half of hair-growing hasn't been easy on his son.

"I've got a 10-year-old who's been openly called a f- and gay," he said.

Kids of all ages called William those names because his hair was different, said Nik. William, an intelligent kid who grew up in a tolerant household, knows what those words mean but struggled to understand why they were supposed to hurt him.

An adult soccer coach, old enough to know better, would repeatedly refer to William as girl, despite being fully aware he isn't one, said Nik.

"It's not too hard to figure out how a lot of these kids know how to call other people names," said Nik.

One of the names he got at school was "brown-frocks," William said.

"I was at a new school and the main bully kept making fun of me," he said. That bully and some of the other students didn't know why he was growing out his hair, but he hopes they'll now regret what they said.

While Diann Laland cuts his hair, William Panter, 10, looks at one of the braids of hair he's donating to be made into a wig for a cancer patient.

WestJet reports growth in June

WestJet Airlines said its flights had fewer empty seats in June compared with a year ago as the airline also increased capacity.

Calgary-based WestJet reported Thursday a load factor — the proportion of seats filled on its flights — of 79 per cent for June, up from 75.7 per cent in June 2011 when Air Canada suffered a brief strike by its customer service agents. The increase came as passenger traffic climbed 6.7 per cent from the same time last year, while capacity increased 2.3 per cent.

"Advanced bookings for July and August remain strong," WestJet CEO Gregg Saretzky said in a statement.

Meanwhile, regional carrier Porter Airlines reported a load factor of 62 per cent for June, down from 64.6 per cent a year ago.

Cabinet upholds competition between phone companies

Prime Minister Stephen Harper's cabinet has upheld a CRTC ruling that allows big telephone companies to compete against smaller ones in rural areas.

Smaller phone companies from Ontario, Quebec and B.C. petitioned cabinet to overturn a May 2011 decision by Canada's telecom regulator to allow competition in some rural and remote parts of the country. Those areas had been protected from competition by regulations that allowed for only one service provider.

Those representing small independent telephone companies had argued the CRTC ruling meant the big companies would be free to offer telephone services to homes passed by their cable networks, while ignoring potential customers in remote areas. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian employers to add more jobs

Survey. 40 per cent of hiring managers are planning to hire new full-time employees in second half of 2012

A new survey suggests fewer Canadian employers expect to add more permanent full-time jobs in the second half of 2012 than they did in last year's poll.

The Harris Interactive survey found that 40 per cent of hiring managers said they were planning to hire new permanent, full-time employees by the end of the year compared with 43 per cent in the second half of 2011.

The countrywide survey was conducted between May 14 and June 4 on behalf of website CareerBuilder Canada.

Results from among 292 hiring managers and human resource professionals contacted found that in addition to the 40 per cent who expected to add high full-time employees, 22 per cent planned to add part-time workers and 26 per cent contract or temporary employees. Some 17 per cent said they would take on interns.

Tim Hortons. Coffee chain to introduce free Wi-Fi

Double-double addicts will soon have another reason to stop into one of the thousands of Tim Hortons outlets across the country.

The coffee-and-doughnut chain announced Thursday that it is working to roll out free wireless Internet to more than 2,000 locations. It expects 90 per cent of its so-called "traditional" outlets across Canada will offer free Wi-Fi by September.

The plan does not include its non-traditional outlets, including kiosks, gas stations and hospital locations.

MARRIAGE: IMPOSSIBLE

THE LIST
Neil Morton
Metro

1 Tom Cruise at 50. It's been only seven years since the Scientologist jumped on Oprah's couch to profess his love for Katie Holmes. Now, with a pending divorce (Katie apparently wants to protect her daughter Suri from being indoctrinated into Scientology), things are not looking up for Cruise, who turned 50 this week. Eyes Wide Shut.

2 Anderson Cooper. The CNN anchor came out of the closet this week. "The fact is, I'm gay, always have been, always will be, and I couldn't be any more happy, comfortable with myself, and proud," he wrote in an email published on his friend Andrew Sullivan's blog. Cooper decided he was doing more harm than good by not coming out. Kudos.

3 Spain. The football juggernaut staked its claim to being one of the best national sides in history by winning a record third straight major title, routing Italy 4-0 in the Euro 2012 final. What Italy did show is they have one of the more dynamic and stylin' young strikers in football — Mario (Super Mario) Balotelli.

4 Good Afternoon America. Good Morning America is spinning off into a nine-week summer-afternoon series called Good Afternoon America. It launches on Monday, and, if ratings go well and the show continues in the fall, could we see a Good Night America spinoff? Nah, that name is too ominous.

5 Steve Nash. Canada was having Steve Nash fever, with basketball fans across the country salivating at the prospect of the star signing with the Toronto Raptors. But it was all just a Hollywood dream with no happy ending, as Nash instead went to the L.A. Lakers, where he will play with Kobe. And win a title.

6 Carly Rae Jepsen. The pop sensation came to Peterborough, Ont., Wednesday, performing to one of the largest crowds in the history of the city's Little Lake Musicfest. She had the fans in the palms of her hands, finishing the night with them singing along to her summer hit Call Me Maybe. I was there with my daughters, and, shh, was singing right along.

7 London calling. Jessica Zelinka announced herself as possibly being Canada's best female athlete by winning the 100-metre hurdles shortly after breaking her own Canadian record in the heptathlon. She tweeted about her next step: a berth in the Summer Olympics. "@jessicaZelinka: Crashing after riding the high all week. Thanks for sharing this crazy journey with me. London here we come!"

8 Chris Brown. The bad rapper wannabe released a new verse on a remixed track, I Don't Like, ripping his adversary Drake for their nightclub brawl in June. Brown slams Drake for "throwin' bottles" while he himself is "throwin' models." This stupid boy fight over Rihanna has evolved into the dumbest hip-hop beef in music history.

9 Jose Bautista. The slugger earned his third straight all-star berth when Major League Baseball announced its starting lineups for next week's game in Kansas City. Bautista, who set a Blue Jays record with 15 homers in the month of June, is the silver lining on a Jays team that is going downhill fast with all their injured starting pitchers.

10 Doug Pitt. Brad Pitt's little brother Doug stars in a rather quirky commercial that went viral for Virgin Mobile Australia. In the ad, titled, "Meet Doug Pitt, the second most famous Pitt in his family," we're given a tour by Doug inside his middle-class home and lifestyle. No, Angelina Jolie's brother James Haven does not make a cameo.

11 Train. The band is on a big U.S. tour but is making two Canadian stops next week, one in Montreal (July 10) and the next night in Toronto. So if you're proposing to your girlfriend this summer, the perfect time to do it is with a flash mob at their concert when they're singing Marry Me.

12 Detroit zombie theme park. A Detroit company, Z World Detroit LLC., wants to turn one of the city's abandoned neighbourhoods into a massive zombie theme park. Now there's sure to be a lot of political red tape, but it's definitely one of the more creative solutions proposed to helping turn Detroit's economy around — and a radical rethinking of urban redevelopment.

Raising awareness of euthanized dogs

In this April photo, Taiwanese photographer Tou Chih-kang tries to make a portrait of a puppy in the final moments of its life before the animal was put down by lethal injection at a shelter in Taoyuan, northern Taiwan.

Chih-kang has been visiting dog shelters for two years now, making human-like portraits that give a sense of dignity and esteem to some 400 canines, in hopes of educating the public on the proper care of pets.

Activists say that some 70 per cent of dogs in Taiwanese shelters are killed after a 12-day waiting period.

The pictures are Tou Chih-kang's way of trying to encourage responsibility among Taiwanese dog owners, who abandon their pets when they tire of them.

His photos will be exhibited in a full-scale show in southern Taiwan next month. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spy style

If there's one thing James Bond has taught us, it's that behind every great spy is a great tailor. A new exhibition at London's Barbican Centre explores the style of the suave secret agent, displaying costumes, props, set pieces and design drawings from half a century of 007 films. Assembled with help from the films' producers, the exhibition includes the spy's tuxedos, Bond girl ballgowns and villains' vestments, as well as a selection of props, gadgets and sketches of the films' exotic sets. It pays tribute to the British, European and American craftspeople and designers who have created the look of the quintessentially British icon. "Designing 007" opens Friday and runs to Sept. 5. It will then tour internationally, opening at the TIFF Bell Lightbox in Toronto in October.

Stone's Savages — flamboyant and fun

Standard drug flick.

Savages ticks each requisite off the list — a California cutie, a threesome and Benicio Del Toro as a Mexican bad guy

Richard: Mark, I knew I was in for an over-the-top Oliver Stone movie from Savages' opening minutes. The "wargasm" reference was my first clue and by the time Benicio Del Toro literally twirled his moustache like a pantomime baddie, I knew this wasn't the same director who gave us World Trade Center, this is Stone in Natural Born Killers mode. It's wild, but I found it more flamboyant than fun. You?

Mark: Well, Richard, let's see

... guns, drugs, threesomes; sounds like hanging out with Sam Kinison in the '80s. Actually, I think this is Stone's best picture since Reagan was President. He's working viscerally here and you can feel everything: the coastal languors of Laguna Beach, the scuzziness of Mexican border towns, Blake Lively's silken suntan. For a violent popcorn movie, I found it pretty sensual. Did you think the leads held their own with the scenery?

RC: It's definitely a good-looking movie from the stars to the scenery, but I thought the cast was really interesting as well as pretty. Johnson and Kitsch are good and evil, flip sides of the same coin, Lively isn't as sprightly as her name might suggest, but she does do damaged quite well. I also enjoyed Travolta, Hayek and Del Toro chewing the scen-

Synopsis

Aaron Johnson and Taylor Kitsch are Ben and Chon, entrepreneurs, drug dealers and two thirds of a love triangle with California cutie Ophelia (Blake Lively). They sell a potent strain of legal medical grade marijuana but also siphon off some for illicit practice and profit, which earns the attention of a Mexican Baja drug Cartel run by Elena (Salma Hayek). She'll do anything to create a "joint" venture, including kidnapping their shared paramour.

ery but I felt it hard to care about any of them. They're all rather despicable, and I found myself hoping they'd all end up in a Mexican standoff.

MB: Well, it is a drug movie after all, so you know there will be double-crosses galore. I think you're supposed to care about the Blake Lively character, as the innocent of the bunch, but she's a bit vapid to really identify with. Del Toro makes, as usual, a great baddie, although Travolta stole the show for me with his corrupt DEA agent. But you'd think for a guy on the take, he'd have a much better haircut.

RC: Ha! It's a haircut almost as bad as the ending. No spoilers ... but it felt like a cheat.

MB: The ending wants to have its pot brownie and eat it too, but I appreciated the attempt to play with the narrative and our expectations. For me, it was flamboyant and fun.

Summer summed up in two words: The Avengers

Box office. Fickle fair-weather audiences agree on the Marvel Comics mashup, which accounts for one-third of summer revenues

The audiences are proving far more unpredictable than the movies Hollywood has created to pack them into theatres this summer.

Studios have released a familiar assortment of action tales, family flicks and star-driven comedies since the summer-blockbuster season began in early May. Yet while overall business has been solid, fans have been choosier than usual, spending a fortune on one superhero sensation, kicking in for a handful of midline hits and generally bypassing everything else.

Movies featuring box-office heavyweights Johnny Depp (Dark Shadows), Tom Cruise (Rock of Ages) and Adam Sandler (That's My Boy) fell flat, as did the action spectacle Battleship.

Will Smith and Tommy Lee Jones pulled in fair crowds for Men in Black 3, though the action comedy played to a smaller audience than its predecessors. The animated tales Madagascar 3: Europe's Most Wanted and Brave joined the action adventures Snow White & the Huntsman and Prometheus as $100 million hits.

But nearing its midpoint, a summer that looked like an easy record-breaker at the start really can be summed up in two words: The Avengers. With $600 million domestically, the Marvel Comics superhero mashup accounts for a third of Hollywood's summer revenues, taking in more than the rest of the season's top-five movies combined.

The Avengers continues a trend in which a few big movies suck up a greater portion of moviegoers' money as studios focus on their so-called tent-pole releases, franchise films that cost a fortune to make but pay off like billion-dollar jackpots when they work. But The Avengers has made this summer more lopsided than ever, and with two more colossal superhero films coming in July — The Amazing Spider-Man and The Dark Knight Rises — the season could end up with three towering tent-poles and a whole lot of tadpoles down below.

"I don't know that I've ever seen a summer so top-heavy," said Paul Dergarabedian, analyst for box-office tracker Hollywood.com. "I think we're going to have Avengers, Dark Knight and Spider-Man being the big, big movies of summer with a lot of other movies really bringing up the rear, like way behind. They can't all be home runs, but you need solid doubles and triples, and we haven't seen that many of those so far."

Hollywood went on a box-office tear the first four months of this year, with revenues running as much as 20 per cent ahead of 2011's on the strength of such pre-summer hits as The Hunger Games, Dr. Seuss' The Lorax, 21 Jump Street, Safe House and The Vow.

After The Avengers opened with a record-breaking $207 million weekend domestically, the ensemble film featuring Robert Downey Jr., Scarlett Johansson and Samuel L. Jackson kept on filling theatre seats while other big releases came and went with barely a ripple. Hits usually come every Friday in summer, with the schedule so crowded and the fans so stoked that new movies generally bump the previous weekend's winner out of the top spot at the box office.

The film continues to do solid business nearly two months after its release, while some movies that came later have long since vanished from most theatres.

By this point in summer, Hollywood typically has two or three $200 million and $300 million hits to brag about. So far this season, The Avengers is the only one — doing enough business on its own to amount to several blockbusters and highlighting the fact that studios haven't had great luck interesting viewers in much else.

"I'm never one to solely rely on the thought that it's the movies, stupid," said Chris Aronson, head of distribution for 20th Century Fox, which released Prometheus. "But in this case, I do think it's true. The movies that have come after The Avengers

just haven't been compelling enough." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Instructions from the Grammy-winning guru

Music. Want to write a chart-topping country tune? Acclaimed Canadian songwriter tells how

If songs are like children to professional hit-makers, Canadian Gordie Sampson is one watchful dad.

The 40-year-old from Big Pond, N.S., has penned two chart-topping smash singles for Carrie Underwood while also dashing off songs for the likes of Keith Urban, Miranda Lambert, Blake Shelton, Martina McBride and LeAnn Rimes. The Grammy winner estimates that he demos about 75 songs a year, so surely it's difficult to keep tabs on all his musical offspring?

"God no, you're glued to the (chart)," the personable Sampson said down the line from the East Coast this week. "First thing you do in the morning before you have your coffee is check the chart and see if it went up a point overnight."

"Not that I'd know, but I guess it's a bit like watching your stocks. You've got an investment and one starts to take off, and it goes up a point one day, and down a point the next, and you're like: 'Oh shoot, is it done? Is it going to fall off the chart?' And the next day it jumps up five places."

"So it's just this manic depression that lasts 40 weeks or so."

Of course, Sampson points out that for a professional songwriter, it's more lucrative for a song to take its time gradually climbing the chart to No. 1 — "That's the dream," he says.

If that logic surprises you, welcome to the world of behind-the-scenes hit crafting. This month, Sampson is sharing his insights with hopeful songwriters at his third annual Songcamp in Cape Breton, N.S., culminating in two live performances from his pupils on July 12 in Ingonish.

But for those other fans whose Stetsons are stuffed to the brim with good song ideas, Sampson shares the following tips for penning a chart-topping country tune:

Words are worth the world
To hear Sampson tell it, no factor is more critical to a country song's success than its lyrics.

"The lyric is more important in a country song than most other kinds of music," he said.

And what's the key to a country turn of phrase that gleams as brightly as a cowboy's belt buckle? Keep it simple, partner. Sampson said that it's important to make sure the words are general enough so that anyone listening can relate. So if a country crooner warbles a tune about a "her," Sampson says the lyric should work whether the listener thinks the pronoun refers to his wife, his mother or his dog.

"Sometimes, a song being written very quickly can be an indication of how great it is because the song and the lyric ends up being uninhibited — the lyric has a freedom to it," he said.

"Whereas if you sit down and pine over a lyric for three days, you tend to overwrite it in the same way (a painter) can put too many colours on a picture.... Songs can be sort of over-painted." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sleigh Bells' Reign of Terror

New music. Album plays homage to classic rock bands like Def Leppard and pop acts like Cyndi Lauper and the Go Go's

Metro World News

Sleigh Bells seemed to emerge fully formed, with a brutally unique sound of overblown guitars and vocals that alternated between pop-singer sweetness and cheerleader vengeance.

The Brooklyn duo's 2009 debut, Treats, landed on nearly every single year-end best-of list, including this publication's.

For their follow-up, Reign of Terror, released this spring, guitarist Derek Miller and singer Alexis Krauss decided to do away with some of the tricks of Treats in favour of more conventional sounds. But they put these sounds into a context that is anything but conventional.

"In a lot of ways, Reign of Terror is an homage to classic rock and a lot of arena rock songs that are pretty formulaic and pretty universal in terms of structure and what they make you feel," says Krauss. "We were very shameless in referencing bands like Def Leppard or pop acts like Cyndi Lauper or the Go Go's."

Where Krauss was filling in pre-written vocal parts for the debut, the pair collaborated more for Reign of Terror, and the result is something more melodic. There are even a few ballads on the album. Krauss says she knows that the combination of '80s metal and their own pop and punk instincts have definitely turned off a few listeners. But she has no regrets.

"We always say that we don't really have any guilty pleasures," she says. "If we listen to something and we like it, we're not embarrassed about referencing it. We're both real lovers of pop music, so I think being able to write a really simple but catchy hook is one of the hardest things to do as a songwriter. And we kind of like thinking that way: 'How can we write a song as good as Pour Some Sugar on Me?'"

Like father, like son

Music. Adam Cohen enjoying career high at the same time as poet father, Leonard

Leonard Cohen has been enjoying such a charmed year musically that it's hard to imagine how even the masterfully morose poet could locate a downside in 2012.

His first album in more than seven years, Old Ideas, became his first to top the charts in Canada en route to platinum sales, and caused critics to collectively lose their breath. Meanwhile, the 77-year-old Montreal-born singer won the prestigious Glenn Gould Prize and the inaugural PEN songwriting prize while charting an ambitious globe-spanning tour for the second half of the year.

Well, it's been a heady year for Leonard's son, Adam, as well. The 39-year-old also released an album after a seven-year-plus layoff of his own, and the musical reinvention Like a Man is his most acclaimed work to date. In the coming weeks, he'll open for the likes of Bob Dylan, Norah Jones and Rufus Wainwright.

But his own success aside, he's enjoying his father's renaissance as much as anyone.

"I do think it's a coincidence, but at the same time, I also know that to be in his wake is a delicious and satisfying occurrence," says the younger Cohen in a telephone interview this week from Montreal, where he's in rehearsals.

"I've often said that what I think is the distinguishing trait with my father is that he remains to me pertinent and anything but a nostalgia act.

I spent an ungodly amount of time researching music for The Secret Music of Rock (my weekly radio show) and a museum exhibit due to open in Kansas City this fall. I continually uncover some pretty wacky things that I feel duty-bound to report to you. I swear that none of this is made up.

• It's estimated that around the world, 5,000 people make a full-time living from The Beatles. This Adam Cohen's latest album, Like a Man, is garnering critical acclaim.

It gives me great pleasure to bear witness."

In fact, it was his father who in part inspired Adam Cohen's late-career left-turn.

He issued his self-titled debut back in 1998, and in 2004 followed with a Frenchlanguage album, as well as a disc as frontman of the alt-rock outfit Low Millions.

None of the records gained much traction, and he's now quick to question his own artistic priorities during those fledgling stages of his career.

not only includes people at their record label, their publishing company and their various offices, but writers, researchers, collectors and various other full-time Beatles experts.

• Your dog thinks your music is noise. Because they perceive sound differently than we do (it has to do with their hearing ability, frequencies of their vocalizations and their resting heartbeat), dogs can't perceive music the way we do. Cats, on the other hand, have a certain appreciation for songs that have a fast beat and plenty of high notes. However, studies have proven that both dogs and cats become agitated by heavy metal.

• One of the most expensive gramophones ever produced was called an auxetophone, which amplified music by means of a convoluted compressed air system. (Electronic amplification was still 20 years in the future.) When it went on sale in 1906, it sold for $500, the equivalent of more than $12,000 today.

• Horror rocker Rob Zombie is making a movie about the Philadelphia Flyers of the 1970s.

• Madonna is currently touring with a 200-person entourage. This includes 30 bodyguards and a personal dry cleaner. If that wasn't enough, each hotel room she books has to be stripped and furnished with furniture she has shipped in. This includes all toilet seats.

• Lady Gaga's next fashion project is to create a hat made of cockroaches. You read that correctly.

• The English Folk and Dance Society wants to make traditional songs for kids popular again. This includes rewriting Humpty Dumpty so that he survives. In the new version, he bungee jumps.

"I was so preoccupied with trying to play in the highest ranks of pop music," he says. "My esthetic goals were tight jeans, four chords and sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll. I wasn't focused on the art."

Eventually, things started to seem dire. He contemplated quitting music altogether.

"I thought that I had basically tried and failed, and that I was already on the outs," he says. "When you're relegated to scoring porno flicks, writing for others, pitching for movies and commercials, a certain reality does dawn on you."

The whole time he had the songs that comprise Like a Man in his back pocket. He'd been hesitant to record them — in part because of how closely they hewed to his dad's classic work — a mistake he now considers "tragic."

So what changed his mind? When he became a father himself, he began to reconcile his relationship to his own dad's music, or as he puts it, the "family business." Afraid of the perception of nepotism, he had always shunned those influences that would inevitably creep into his music.

Now, the intimate, spare Like a Man invites those comparisons.

"This record is a claiming of an identity, an embrace and a declaration of belonging," he says. "And also, it's a coming of age record. It's reconciling where I've been with where I want to be."

"I thought carving out a path for myself meant outside of the family farm," he adds.

"I found my place is much more true within it."

Was TomKat marriage running on Cruise control?

SAM CASTONE
Metro World News

What started as a rather titillating celebrity divorce is now devolving into a sadly familiar one. Tom Cruise has "absolutely no contact with Katie," according to website TMZ, with Cruise talking only to daughter Suri, 6, on the phone, once a day.

Things are "really bitter now," the source tells the site, with Katie "using Suri as a weapon." Meanwhile, photographers caught Holmes laughing at an ice cream parlor with Suri as bodyguards stood on watch.

"He has been Tom Cruise for 30 years," she told Elle magazine, in their just-released issue, which may have offered clues about the divorce to come.

"I know who I am and where I am and where I want to go, so I want to focus on that. I definitely feel much more comfortable in my own skin. I feel sexier," she continued. "I'm starting to come into my own. It's like a new phase."

With Cruise in the news, the paps are suddenly interested in Nicole Kidman, his ex, again.

They caught her having — gasp! — dinner with her husband, country singer Keith Urban, at a Florida restaurant, according to Us Magazine. The 45-year-old divorced Cruise in 2001, after an 11-year marriage.

Grilled Dessert Pizza

Pizza. Since you'll be barbecuing this weekend anyway, why not get creative?

For a backyard get-together, dessert has got to be easy and easy going.

And since you're probably making the rest of your meal on the grill anyway, why not use it to prep dessert, too?

This dessert pizza is incredibly quick and versatile. Top it with whatever sweet treats you like, or consider making individual ones and having a dessert pizza bar so people can select their own toppings.

Be sure to let the pizza dough rest at room temperature for about 30 minutes before trying to roll it out. Otherwise, it will be too stiff to work with and will resist stretching.

1. Heat a grill to medium-high.

2. Scatter half of the sugar on a counter top. Place the pizza dough over the sugar and roll out into the sugar. Sprinkle the top of the dough with the remaining sugar, then roll again to press the sugar into the top. You should have a rough circle about 12 inches in diameter.

3. Transfer the dough to a baking sheet, then head out to the grill.

4. Use an oil-soaked paper towel held with tongs to oil the grill grates.

5. Transfer pizza dough directly onto the grates. Cook for 3 minutes per side, or until cooked and lightly browned.

6. Return the crust to the baking sheet and immediately sprinkle the chocolate bits over the top. Wait 1 minute to allow the chocolate to melt, then use a butter knife or silicone spatula to spread the melted chocolate evenly over the crust. Sprinkle with the chopped strawberries and the flaked coconut. Enjoy warm.

Forget about the fashion, music and auto industries. None are driven by trends more aggressively than the booze business.

While some sub-segments virtually re-invent themselves every year, others simply go back to the future to find the next big thing.

The wine world spins like a top on this axis. Need proof? Though floundering for years, the juice from France and Italy is back on top again.

As consumers sip their way back to the origins of wine making, some polarizing flavour profiles are reaching out and grabbing the palates of wine lovers with a grip that even Iron Man would envy.

The hottest "what the heck" wine that has found fame is white moscato. Its romantic sounding name is actually the Italian translation of muscat — one of the oldest families of grapes in the world.

International wine-makers have borrowed the term with E & J Gallo's Barefoot Moscato ($9.95 - $11.99) a prime example of the style's balance of easy-drinking, plush, white fruit sweetness and low alcohol.

Well chilled, moscato makes for a refreshing warm weather sipper and a fine match with fresh fruit, most cheeses and sugary desserts. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Ballet dances into the mainstream

Tutu trend. What started with the film Black Swan has turned into a series of TV shows and sold-out ballet performances dancers at Ballet West, a highly regarded company in Salt Lake City.

The season comes to a finale next week, and suspense is high: Will Ronnie, Rex, Christiana and Allison be ready for their close-up? Or will opening-night jitters, not to mention relationship issues, derail their hard work? But we digress. What Underwood is "digging" is the broader fact that ballet, often relegated to a dusty, forgotten shelf in the current culture, seems to be having its moment in the sun.

Besides Breaking Pointe, there's the ABC Family show Bunheads, starring the Tony-winning actress Sutton Foster (the title is dance-speak for ballerinas, a reference to their neatly coiled hairdos). And hugely popular dance-competition shows like Dancing with the Stars have featured guest turns by ballet dancers like Jose Manuel Carreno, recently retired from American Ballet Theatre, and the ballerina Tiler Peck of New York City Ballet.

There's also a popular documentary film garnering praise, First Position, which tracks young dancers in a global competition. But it's a much more famous 2010 film that gets much of the credit for starting the ballet mini-craze: Darren Aronofsky's cool and edgy Black Swan, which starred Natalie Portman and brought a whole new vibe to that stuffy classic, Swan Lake.

"Black Swan really did bring ballet into the mainstream pop culture consciousness in a way it hadn't been for a while — and that was great for us in the ballet world," says Rob Daniels, managing director at New York City Ballet.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I'm really digging it," says Ronnie Underwood, a buff, tattooed motorcycle enthusiast, auto racer and former football player who also happens to be a ballet dancer.

Serena Williams powers into final

Tennis. Four-time Wimbledon champion hits record 24 aces

Serena Williams wins with so much more than serving, of course.

Her groundstrokes are intimidating. Her superb speed and anticipation fuel unparalleled court-covering defence. Her returns are outstanding.

When that serve is on-target, though, it sure is something special, quite possibly the greatest in the history of women's tennis.

Lashing a tournament-record 24 aces at up to 120 mph, and doing plenty of other things well, too, four-time Wimbledon champion Williams overpowered No. 2-seeded Victoria Azarenka of Belarus 6-3, 7-6 (6) Thursday to reach her seventh final at the All England Club.

"Isn't that something?" said Williams' father, Richard, after watching his daughter win on Centre Court. "She was really trying, you know?"

On Saturday, the 30-year-old Williams will try to become the first woman at least that age to win a major tournament since Martina Navratilova, who was 33 when she won Wimbledon in 1990.

"The older I get, the better I serve, I feel," Williams said. "I don't know how it got better; I really don't know. It's not like I go home and I work on baskets and baskets of serves. Maybe it's a natural shot for me."

Her next opponent will be No. 3 Agnieszka Radwanska of Poland, who reached her first Grand Slam final at age 23 by playing steady as can be during a 6-3, 6-4 victory over No. 8 Angelique Kerber of Germany.

"After a couple of games, I just relaxed a little bit," said Radwanska, who made only six unforced errors, one in the second set. "I was really focusing on every point."

Williams won 20 of her 24 service points in the first set, including 17 in a row during one stretch.

And this performance didn't come against a slouch: Azarenka won the Australian Open in January as part of a 26-0 start to

Houston Rockets guard Kyle Lowry reacts during a game against the Portland Trail Blazers in Portland, Ore., in April. DON RYAN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

One of the first NBA sources to be asked about Kyle Lowry called him a "pit bull."

One of the next couple of talent evaluators said he's as competitive as anyone in the league.

Somewhere, coach Dwane Casey must be smiling and Raptors general manager Bryan Colangelo has to be quite happy with his so-called Plan B.

Moving with quickness to ease the pain of a Steve Nash snub, the Raptors reached an agreement in principle Thursday to acquire Lowry from the Houston Rockets once the NBA's moratorium on player movement is lifted July 11.

The Raptors will give up a lightly protected first-round pick once over the next five years along with seldom-used swingman Gary Forbes for the 26-year-old point guard entering his seventh NBA season in the fall.

The 6-foot Lowry averaged 14.3 points and 6.6 assists with the Rockets last season, missing the last quarter of the season with an infection.

No one connected with the Raptors could officially comment — or even acknowledge — the transaction.

But it has been no secret that Lowry has been on Toronto's radar for some time.

Nash's choice

Steve Nash chose the Los Angeles Lakers because they're close to his children and to NBA title contention.

- On ESPN radio Thursday, The 38-year-old Canadian said he spoke to Kobe Bryant by phone Monday to confirm the Lakers star wants to work together.

- Bryant told Nash they would be a perfect fit in the Lakers' backcourt.

Columnist Dan Toth discusses how the Argos need to find their discipline, why Simon's best-receiver-ever coronation is premature and in which city a QB controversy is already brewing among other thoughts heading into the second week of Canadian football

Photos by The Canadian Press/Torstar News Service

Flags dragging down Boatmen

Argos head coach Scott Milanovich needs to teach his troops some discipline if they hope to succeed, no matter what QB Ricky Ray brings to the team in 2012. The club drew 18 flags in their season-opening loss in Edmonton, and Milanovich has to drill home the message or begin shuffling his roster.

Tempering Tate's great start in Calgary

The Stamps like life without Henry Burris, at least through one game. New Stamps starter Drew Tate is living up to expectations in Cowtown with a 300-yard passing game in the season opener. The big test now is playing three games in 12 days during their annual exodus East during Calgary Stampede Week.

Simon's numbers don't say it all

Don't be too quick to anoint Geroy Simon the best receiver in CFL history, even though he vaulted over Milt Stegall into first overall in career receiving yards. Stegall achieved his numbers with less proficient QBs, Ben Cahoon had better hands, Allen Pitts was tougher to defend and old-timers will tell you Hal Patterson was a combination of all those traits.

Pierce protection problem persists

We established last year that the Bombers were going nowhere if they couldn't protect QB Buck Pierce. The injury-prone pivot was sidelined by a knee injury when enduring one of four sacks last week in B.C., although he's expected to play Friday in Montreal. Still, Pierce won't succeed and might not survive the 2012 season without protection from the pass rush.

Easier being Green?

The Green Gods have put to rest six months of second-guessing among the faithful; terrified the team would struggle again in 2012. A road win over Hamilton in Week 1 has restored faith in the Riders. They haven't beaten a West Division opponent since the 2010 West Final in Calgary, but can end that streak with a win Sunday over Edmonton.

No smiles yet for sputtering Jyles

Can't remember the last time fans wanted their QB pulled when LEADING by a touchdown, but that's what happens when drives continually stall. New Eskimos starter Steven Jyles is thankful kicker Grant Shaw connected his four field goals in a Week 1 win over Toronto, but Jyles' ability to find the end zone is a work in progress.

Columbus mum on Nash trade progress

NHL. Blue Jackets GM staying closed-lipped about potential deals for star captain Columbus Blue Jackets general manager Scott Howson isn't saying much about his quest to trade captain Rick Nash.

"We are working very hard" was about the limit of the conversation when Howson was reached Thursday. He also added that he is not facing a deadline to make a deal.

Just about everyone else believes that things should be heating up.

Nash, the Blue Jackets leader in most offensive categories and a former London Knight, revealed midway through last season that he had asked to be traded. He has a no-trade clause in his contract, and has given a list of possible destinations.

It was thought that once top free agents Zach Parise and Ryan Suter signed (both with Minnesota earlier this week), interest in Nash would climb. Among the reported suitors are the New York Rangers, Detroit, San Jose, Carolina and Philadelphia.

Nash's camp is not speaking, either. He has not ad-

Big-stage standout

Despite making the playoffs only once with the Blue Jackets, in 2009, Nash has been a sterling performer on the international stage.

- He had two goals and three assists in seven games as Canada won the Olympic gold medal in 2010 in Vancouver. He also has been a standout at the world championships and has scored a hat trick in the NHL all-star game.

Washington's Alex Ovechkin are the others), and many of them are highlight-reel quality.

The quiet 28-year-old is also a model citizen, winning the NHL Foundation Player Award in 2009 for his commitment and service to charities in his community.

Nash is coming off a season in which he scored 30 goals and added 29 assists, but had a career worst minus-19 plus/minus. Of course, that number also has a lot to do with his teammates, and the Blue Jackets were far and away the worst team in the NHL last season.

NHL. Flyers sign pair to get in on free-agency mix

The Flyers on Thursday signed a pair of free agents, forward Ruslan Fedotenko and defenceman Bruno Gervais.

Fedotenko, a veteran who will enter his 12th season in the NHL, won the Stanley Cup with the Tampa Bay Lightning in 2004 and the Pittsburgh Penguins in 2009. This is his second stint with Flyers, having played in Philadelphia from 2000-02.

Gervais had six goals and 13 points in 50 games for Tampa Bay last season, and

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20. A family feud is in the cards today but now that you know that, you can limit the chances of a serious falling-out by watching what you say.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21. No matter how irritating someone may be, you must not let them get under your skin. Be on the move as much as possible today.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20. What happens today will only be important if you choose to let it be important. That applies especially to money matters and business negotiations.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22. You will be both assertive and ambitious today, which could cause problems if others get the impression that you care for nothing but your own glory. Tone it down a bit.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. You have something to say. It's something you think is important, but you have got to accept that, in saying it, you may upset a few people.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. You may wonder why you have been singled out for so much good fortune, but in the greater scheme of things, nothing happens without a reason. Enjoy what you get today.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

You have what it takes to compete at the highest level, so don't let fear of failure hold you back. Get out there into the world and show creativity.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov.

21. If you are the kind of Scorpio who loves to travel, you could find yourself a long way from home over the next 24 hours. Don't worry about how you are going to get back.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec.

21. You will have energy to spare over the next 24 hours, but it is your Sagittarian enthusiasm that will lead to success. Focus on what you are good at and on what you enjoy.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan. 20.

You're under a lot of pressure and because the pressure comes mainly from partners and colleagues, you could fall out with someone today.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb. 18.

You can achieve some remarkable things over the next few days, so forget about the easy life and push yourself harder than ever before.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March

20. You've had your fill of talk and you've had your fill of trying to plan things out in great detail — all you want to do is get busy on a project that you believe in. SALLY BROMPTON
